PROVIDING HOPE
THROUGH RELATIONSHIPS

WHO WE ARE

>>MISSION STATEMENT

Inner Hope Youth Ministries provides hope to at-risk youth through housing, support, life skills, and discipleship.

>>COMMUNITY ISSUE

Home life for many East Vancouver children is a far cry from the life they desire for themselves. During adolescence many youth are pulled into the unhealthy lifestyle patterns that surround them – drugs and violence.

All too often this is not a choice – youth are left prey to the destructive cycles of poverty and addiction.

>>INNER HOPE'S RESPONSE

Inner Hope Youth Ministries (IHYM) responds to youth through offering an alternative and a foundation from which to break the cycle.

Youth grow through meaningful relationships, experiences, and life skills. We celebrate with youth as they build stronger futures and follow their dreams.

>>YOUTH PROFILE

Those who choose to access support through IHYM are usually vulnerable East Vancouver youth ages 13-24.

These youth come from environments of addiction, and/or abuse – some of them are young parents, some have a criminal record and some are struggling with addiction themselves.

INNER HOPE'S HISTORY

SINCE 2001, Carla Dickinson and Jenny Shantz have responded to East Vancouver's vulnerable youth by providing them with practical support, advocacy, and short and longterm housing.

IN 2007, they adopted the name Inner Hope Youth Ministries (IHYM) and became a registered charity.

Approved by the Ministry of Children and Families to house youth, IHYM expanded their capacity to meet youth's needs by moving into a larger home and developing community programs.

IN 2009, IHYM partnered with World Vision Canada under the Partners to End Child Poverty (PECP) program to launch the life skills program, Boundless Hope.
